QB3-Berkeley Individual Development Plan (IDP)

This IDP includes two sections. The first contains assessment questions - for trainee self-reflection and organizing thoughts, ideas and ultimately prioritizing what might be discussed with a research advisor or another mentor. Sharing the self-reflection portion of the IDP with a mentor or advisor is optional; a trainee may choose to do so if they feel it will help mentors gain insights into their needs. The second part of the IDP provides a framework for setting goals and taking actions in the next year. The purpose of this part is to help shape discussions with your mentors on how to achieve your goals.
